Frof. Holyoke's lecture at the Masonic Temple last night was heard with deep and lively interest. It was characterized by great force and beauty of language, and, for the most part, by striking justness of thought. We think the Professor's admiration for Ruskin altogether too high, but, as we have intimated before, this error, if it is one, is pracrically corrected by his own fine, uncorrupted sense of art.

Conceiving, as we do, that it is precisely in the fundamental principles of Art that Ruskin is most grievously at fault, we can by no means subscribe to the opinion, expressed by Prof. Holyoke, that all just thinking in relation to the grounds of Art must coincide with that of the brilliant Oxford critic. We dissent from this opinion entirely. Yet, as we have hinted, the l'rofessor is as true in practice as we think he is false in theory. It is really a matter of comparatively little moment what or how a man "knows" who "builds" so weil.

The lecturer's remarks on the religious aspect of Art were not only forcible and appropriate, but exccedingly fervent and beautiful. They displayed, moreover, a noble insight into the subtler experiences of the human soul. Ilis critical suggestions with respect to American Ait, and particularly American Architecture, richly merit the thoughtful attention of our people.

Prof. Holyoke's reading of the loss of "little Emily," from "Copperfield," and of Tennyson's Charge at Balaklava, with which he concluded the evening, excited loud and warm applause. The former reading was especially excellent. We don't think that any perfection of elecution could make much of Tennyson's poem.

Prof. 11. will conclude his highly instructive and charming course some night next week, of which due netice will be given.

GET MONEY, by Mrs. L. C. Tuthill, author of "Tip Top," "Queer Bonnets," &c. 16 mo., pp. 284. New York: Charles Scribner.—This is a good story for boys, although the title would indicate that it might only be interesting to those who are more fond of filthy lncrc than we suppose boys nsually sre. The hero of the book is a boy of fine principles, who, by his own exertions, supported his each party to have a friend, and the principals to be mother and sister, and, in providing for them, he was often urged by other clerks to deviate from the path of rectitude and make haste to be rich; but, and keep his commandments, he did not yield to by attacking him (Ridgway) in his office. Here the their evil suggestions, and, while others lost their matter is dropped. situations either by dishonesty or negligence, he, by his honesty and attention to business, was admitted into the confidence of his employer, and finally became a partner with him, and thus he was enabled honestly to provide for his mother and sister, and was respected by all who knew him. Again we say it is a good book for boys to read, and can be had at A. Davidson's, on Third street, near Market,

DARKNESS IN THE FLOWERY LAND, or Religious Notins and Popular Superstitions in North China. By Rev. M. Simpson Culbertson, of the Shanghai Mission of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church. 16mo. pp. 235. New York. Charles Scribner .- This book is written by one of the missionaries from our own country, who for a number of years labored to promote the cause of truth amongst that peculiar people-the Chinese. It will be found full of interest as describing the manners and customs of the people of China, and presents no doubt truthfully the religious superstitions of that benighted people. The population of China is estimated at four hundred millions; and the whole nation may be said to be in darkness and the shadow of death, for they have not the knowledge of the true God. The book will repay the reader. It is for sale by A. Davidson, on Third street, near

The giant man has fallen, and the tears Of the world's millions speak the homage due To him, who, weary with the weight of years, Fell like a martyr to his country true.

So falls the mountain ash which long less stood. The winds of winter beating 'gainst its form, The haughty monarca of the kindred wood, Rising majestic o'er each raging storm.

Oh! he has fallen now, and the bright s'ar Of his proud destiny has fied from heaven, Leaving its light still beaming from afar, Like gold upon the radiant brow of even.

And muse where rests the sleeper's noble breast-Come catch the inspiration of his worth, And learn the virtues of a nation's biest.

Here rear to heaven the venerable shaft, The Parian marble and the sculptured bust: In distant ages time along will waft
His fame when these shall crumble into dust,

Where stands his prondest monument; away Upon the classle soil of fettered Greece, Where tyranny held her despotic sway, And civil night had darked the run of peace.

Go to the sunny south where Bolivar Upon the banks of Orellana bled, Hear ye his voice in the cry of war,

Come, stranger, to his native land, and read Itis epitaph o'er all, and, traveler, thou, Here learn the virtue of each glorious deed That twined the immortal laurel on his brow,

A shout for freedom when all hope had fled.

Write ye his epitaph! A nobler one Is traced upon the banners of the worfd, Where e'er the genius of liberty has gone, Where e'er the flag of freedom is unfurle i.

Long will we cherish the great hero's worth, Long will his memory be green with us, Long after that loved form is closed in earth. And mingled lowly with its kindred dust. ABBEYWOOD, NEAR GREENSBURG, KY.

EIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS.

The river is still at a stand with large 7 feet water in the canal by the mark, and 5 feet 2 inches in the pass on the falls. It was raining again yesterday, which turned into snow in the evening. Last night the weather was clear and cool.

The Republic - This elegant steamer has arrived from New Orleans, and we thank her polite officers for papers of the latest dates. The R. has superly accommodations, and is in charge of careful and courtcous officers. Our townsman, Capt. T. Jeff. Stewart, is her commander. The R. will leave for New Orleans this evening.

The Duna .- We have a dispatch from Captain Sturgeon, dated at Memphes, on Wednesday, which informs us that the Diaua will arrive here on Sunday, and return to New Orleans on Tuesday evening. The D. has 600 tons of freight, and is full of passengers.

The Uncle Sam .- The new Uncle Sam, having been unavoidably detained, will leave for New Orleans this morning at 9 o'clock. She will only take passengers, and will, consequently, get off as advertised.

The Moses McLellan .- This fine packet arrived from Memphis yesterday. To her attentive clerks we are indebted for the usual favors. The McLellan came up over the falls through the Indian chute and is lying at the foot of Fourth street. She will return to Memphis this evening. Travelers cannot find a better boat than the McLellan or more courteous officers than Capt. Lamb and Mr. Halliday. The fine packet Bracelet will leave for Green rive to-day. The Telegraph No. 3 is the mailboat for Cincin-

> Mr. Transient, who has a liquor distillery on Bullitt street, on going to his establishment, yesterday morning, missed three barrels of cognac and two barrels of whisky, and the porter, who had a key to the house, was not to be found. Mr. Transient called to his assistance Officer Bligh, who at once set on foot a plan to find the missing goods and with them the missing porter. With his accustomed shrewdness he ascertained the drayman who had hanled the goods, and, through him, found the place where the articles had been deposited. On repairing to the place, which was an old frame building in the ontskirts of the city, near Mr. Hahn's, the liquor as well as the porter and a friend were found. They are both Frenchmen, and their names are Edward Brunet and Godfrey Maillet. Officer Bligh then arrested the men and took them to the jail.

XXXVTH CONGRESS-FIRST SESSION. Thursday's Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.

The bill was made a special order for the second Tuesday in February.

Mr. Slidell also reported a resolution that the committee deem it inexpedient to authorize the establishment either by general or special laws a bank of issue within the District of Columbia.

On motion of Mr. Hamulin a resolution was adopted instructing the Committee on Commerce to inquire into the expediency of repealing the law creing a light-house board.

Mr. Toombs, in alluding to the remarks of Mr. Iverson yesterday—who said if it had not been for the troops in Kansas the abolitionists would have been exterminated—and to those of Mr. Chandler— who thought if such had been the case a fearful retaliation would have been visited upon the border settlements of Missouri—remarked that he would not enter into any controversy on those points, but would not vote to give a single man for the purpose of maintaining peace in Kansas, wheever might hold the power there. Experience and history for ceuturies had demonstrated that order maintained by re: ular soldiers was despotism, and peace only so main-tained was the cemetery of liberty. He would not maintain peace in Kansas on such terms nor have order there at such cost. If freemen could not maintain peace and order among themselves, they were unworthy the exercise of self-government and were not fit to be freemen. A regular army had always been the instrument of despotism. There was not a despotic government in Funone today which a despotic government in Europe to-day which could stand ninety days without it. Walker's as well as in the field. In conclusion, Mr. Slidell submitted an ancendment to the bill reported by the commantice on foreign relations, authorising the President should do so, to communicate the reasons therefor to Congress.

The subject was postponed to the 9th of February and the comideration of the army bill resumed.

Mr. Stewart thought is evilent, in view of the situation of our troops and the troubles in Utah, that an increase in the army was necessary, and should support the bill reported by the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. Fessenden, in the course of his remarks, denied that rebellion existed in Kansas, because some of the dispatches of the government officers so designated it. That did not make it so. The organization at Lawrence was simply a civil organization at Lawrence was simply a civil organization to clear the streets, &c., and did not propose to resist any body or any thing. It had the entire concurrence of all the citizens. That rebellion was like the making out of constructive treason.

Mr. Green replied that the object of that organization was resistance to law. It required every one to support the Topeka constitution. Was not that rebellion against the government?

Mr. Fessenden and he did not call it rebellion, which must be an overt act, and this was a mere livil agrangement for their own convenience.

pied in making speeches for a mere home consumption sniject.

Mr. Shaw, of Illinois, spoke on the Kansas question, he said: Take a Republican to the South and he would become a fire-eater, and take a fire eater to the North and he would become a Republican. It was not in his heart to fall in love with either of these parties. Ile had a contempt for any portion of the South which seeks for a dissolution of the Union. The people of the section from which he came stands by the constitution. The voters of Kansas had not had a fair opportunity to decide for themselves a constitution under which they are to live. What! vote for a constitution which they never had an opportunity to endorse. This was a question of principle, not power. He was sorry to perceive it to be the intention of a party in this house to deprive the people of their ine stimalle rights.

Mr. Comin's reviewed the financial policy of the people of their ine-timable rights.

Mr. Comin's reviewed the financial policy of the Administration, showing the inconsistencies between the President and Secretary of the Treisury on thit subject. He contaided that the application of the bankrupt law to local banks as recommended by the Executive, would be fraught with disastrous results to the industry of the country. It was for the people of the State, and not Congress, to regulate these institutions.

Mr. Hickman, a Democrat from Pennsylvania, said he was compelled to dissent from the views of the President on the Kansas question, but his oppo-sition did not arise from his objection to slavery, but Senate.—Mr. Foote iulroduced a proposition as an amendment to Mr. Davis's Pacific railroad bill in case that a majority of the select committee shall fail to agree to the latter bill. It had his concurrence in the committee, but, if it was defeated, he wished to add a clause for a Northern route to the bill of Mr. Davis.

Mr. Davis said his bill did not specify any route.
Mr. Foote remarked that he did not intend it as antagonistic to Mr. Davis's bill, but as additional, so as to have two routes—a Northeru and a Southern.

Mr. Slidell, from the Select Committee appointed to consider the banking system in the District of Columbia, reported a bill to prohibit the issue of bank notes by corporations, associations, or individuals, and to prevent bank notes from being issued within the District of Columbia by any corporation located beyond its limits of a less denomination than $50.

The bill was made a special order for the second alluding to the President's message, he said he al-ways knew that slavery was a peculiar institution, but never before knew that it embraced all the domestic institutions on which, by the Kansas-Nebras-ka law, the people were to be perfectly free to act in their own way. The doctrine of popular sover-eignty is nat so popular as it was. It was formerly supposed to mean something giving the people power over all their domestic institutions; but rew, as the right by the President, it is to be sweated down to the contemptible dimensions as to whether they shall hold a negro in bonds or not. This is all the extent of popular sovereignty. The case, however, is of popular sovereignty. The case, however, is worse. It is a false pretense.

The question of slavery could not be voted upon, because the Lecompton constitution renders this impossible, for the reason that it is declared that slavery shall not be interfered with as it now exists, and it now exists in Kansas just as firmly as in South Carolina. This was the first time he had learned that that was a free State where negroes and their issne are held as slaves, and where the institution shall not be disturbed. Were Democrats bound to snail not be disturbed. Were Democrats bound to support the Lecompton constitution merely because it has the Executive approbation? The Kansas Legislature never was a lawful body, and hence the acts emanating from it were illegal. How had it occurrently the support of the sup emanating from it were illegal. How had it occur-red that no Democratic officials were found strong nongh to stand the atmosphere of Kansas? Three Democratic Governors had been successively sent thither, and all had returned telling the same story. Mr. Sherman recapitulated the history of Kansas affairs, and said that the free-State men there have done more by their conrage to secure our institutions agains fraud and violence than any other people since the foundation of the government. If the deavor was made to force the Lecompton constitu since the roundation of the government. If the endeavor was made to force the Lecompton constitution upon them it must be by strength of arms, for every aspiration of liberty will be against such an attempt. The committee rose. Adjourned.

AFFAIRS AT FRANKFORT.

[Special Correspondence of the Louisville Journal.] The Fancy Isalt—The Normal School Igaun—Another Agricultural Bill—Sam Again on Hand—Increased Saluries of Judges of the Court of Appeals—A Bill to Prevent the Intermurriage of Cousius—An Explu-nation &c.

FRANKFORT, Jan. 28,

The great event of the session was the Grand Costime Ball given by the members of the Assembly Ball Club at the Capitol Hetel last evening. It was certainly one of the most gorgeous and brilliant entertainments of the kind ever vitnessed in the West, attended as it was by the beauty not only of our own but of the surrounding States. A description of this magnificent atlair—even a sketch of it—would occur magnificent atlair—even a sketch of it—would occupy more space in your paper than Estelle would have a right to ask tor, but I cannot pass over a slight notice of some prominent spirits of the evening, which I will give you in my letter of to-morrow, knowing that as I send you the official proceedings of the Convention herewith, you will have as much work as you will want to do to-night. If any body is disappointed in not seeing a description before the time specified, I am very sure it will not be any foreman, compositor, proof-reader, or any other attache of the Journal office.

Very little of interest transpired either in the Senate or Ifouse of Representatives te-day. The principal topic in the Senate was the discussion of Senate or House of Representatives to-day. The principal topic in the Senate was the discussion of the House bill repealing the Normal school law. After a number of spirited remarks by different members, the Senate refused to coucar in the provisions of the bill. So the Senate has refused to adopt the House hill and the House has refused to adopt the Senate bill. As the Democracy by their representatives, in what is usually denominated the Lower House, seem determined to massacree the Normal school, the Senate bill will doubtless pass that branch of the Legislature as soon as it comes before them in the regular orders of the day. The only matters before the Senate, aside from the subject just mentioned, were strictly of a local and unonly matters before the Senate, aside from the subject just mentioned, were strictly of a local and unimportant character, except a bill offered by Mr. Mallory, the chairman of the Committee on Agriculture and Mannfactures, requiring assessors to furnish statistical information in regard to the quality and quantity of agricultural implements used in the various counties, with an amendment that the assessors should receive additional remuneration

The llouse to-day, whether from the effects of the American convention yesterday or of the ball night, was in an exceedingly amiable humer, and passed various and sundry bills of local character and also a bill, which elicited some little discussion, increasing the salaries of Judges of the Court of Appeals, and extending the length of time of the sessions of that body. The bill was passed by a large majority—over two thirds of the members voting for it.

Another matter of importance before the House today was a bill to prevent by law the intermarriage of first consins. It elicited a good deal of debate, and finally passed by a respectable majority. Those cousins who contemplate a nearer approximation of consanguinity had better hurry up the cakes and parson. The law is proposed to take effect next January, but much may be done between now and then by an avoidance of that old scoundrel Procrastination, who, it is generally believed, at one period of his life stole a chronometer. My own opinion is that although these family conjunctions have never greatly benefited posterity, yet as posterity, so far I have been able to ascertain, has never done any thing for the benefit of this generation—has never died and left as anything—would it not be well enough for the Legislature to reflect about spending the people's money in legislation without the prospect of remuneration.

"Americans" are still "on guard," and as an evidence that the Democracy are fearfully aware that Americanism is still alive, they again had the veritable SAM at the clerk's desk to day officiating in the absence of Major Helm, who was visited with another of those shaking pests of humanity. It seems truly that the Democracy, however much they may abose SAM, can't well get along without the occasional assistance of that worthy individual.

In your issue of to-day you state that in the nomination for Clerk of the Conrt of Appeals Mr. McCorkle received 9 and Mr. McGoodwin 5 votes. In justice to those gentlemen I must state that Mr. McCorkle was not present, but that when he was nominated his name was promptly withdrawn by a friend at his request; that Mr. McGoodwin was present and withdrew his name, with the statement that, however much he might feel complimented by the instructions in his favor of his native, adopted, and several surrounding counties, he did not wish to make the race—and the votes cast for both gentlemen were cast in defiance of the withdrawal of their names.

FRIDAY EVENING, JAN. 29, 1858.

THE AREA OF UTAH .- It may be a matter of some interest to our readers to know something of the comparative extent of that Territory of the United States whose chief officer is bidding defiance to the Government. According to Colton, the area of Utah is 269,170 square miles. To engineers and a few others, this will give a just idea of its vast extent, but the majority of people will form a beiter estimate by being told that it is as large as the whole of the New England States, New York, New Jersey, Peunsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Kentucky, and Tennessee. Or to compare it with European countries, it is equal in extent to G eat B is tain, Ireland, Sairzerland, Prussia, and Denmark. with the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, and Man, and the Iouian islands added.

JAPAN .- Mr. Harris, the American Consul in Japan, has accomplished the following:

Permanent residence is guarantied to Americans Permanent residence is guarantied to Americans after the 4th of July next. The ex-territoriality of Americans acknowledged, and they are amenable only to their own laws. The Consul-General and his family have the right to buy direct from the seler, and pay him in Japanese coin; and he is not bound, in relation to penetrating the interior, by the limit of seven Ri, or miles. The spies are all sent back to Jeddo; free access is allowed to all shops and house; and no polic-men follow us any more. We have fair prospects of settling many other matters. have fair prospects of settling many other matters.

An amusing letter, signed H. G. J. II., in the Inquirer, dated Simoda, Sept. 12, 1857, says:

The San Jacinto left here on the 3d of September The San Jacinto left here on the 3d of September last. In October the Dutch steam frigate Medusa and the General Pierce visited this port. A typhoon also occurred about the same time, which handled us rather roughly, shook the old temple about our ears, threw the whole Gotosho down, smashed all the lacker ware, and covered the beach between Simoda and Kakizaki with junks, of which not a single one in the harror escaped. In November we had the Russian corvete Olivouza here.

In April we got out of lard; in May got out of shoes; in June out of butter; in July out of bread, oil, and money, and in Augusta out of patience.

At last a vessel hove in sight from the signal station; like a hunted deer I bounded over mountain and dale, through jungle and pasture ground, to get a view of the darling ship that was going to link me again to civilization; and, would you believe it, in-stead of entering the harbor she disappeared—she left us. It was a whaler, looking for whales. Why did she not look for Consuls General and isolated Secretaries? I never cared about whalers; but now I not only dislike them, but I detest them; and if the man in the crow's nest could have seen me foaming with wrath and swearing vengeance to all mankind in general, and to whaler in particular, he certainly would have exclaimed—"There she blows."

On the third of this month we got a package of letters and newspapers, the first we have received since leaving America in 1855. They were brought by the U. S. frigate Portsmouth, by which this re-

If any person shall be found hunting with a gun on the Sabbath, he shall, on conviction thereof, be fined not less than five, nor more than twenty dollars.

The number of chattel mortgages recorded up to to-day is 96,330 (ninety-six thousand three hundred and thirty). Over 4,000 of them have been placed there within less than three months, and some of them contain inventories of whole stocks, making twenty pages of the record. Judgments seem to do no good, for near all levies are replevined. There are now over 6,000 cases in suit in this county, from the United States Court down.

"COLLECTOR OF N. Y."

It would really seem as though the laws of many of the Western States had been framed for the purpose of enabling debtors to cheat their creditors. How come these chattel mortgages to be held good? Absconded.

Absconded.—Dr. Joseph Lemly, postmaster at Napoleon, Ark, left for parts unknown on the night of the 15th inst. Many wry faces were visible next morning among his numerous creditors, says the Planter, yet, on reflection, the major part of them were satisfied to lose their respective amounts to secure the withdrawal from the State of an individual who had rendered himself generally obnoxious to the citizaus. The post office is now in charge of his securities, although the appointment of a new postmaster is looked for daily.

Where Tall Solders Come From —From a notice of Surgeon-General Lawson's report in the American Journal of the Medical Sciences, it is ascertained that the tallest mone enlisted in the United States army are from the State of Georgia, where, out of one hundred enlisted, thirty were six feet and over, while the shortest men are from New York, where only four out of one hundred were six feet. de Campuzaro, wife of the Intendente. Her illness lasted about four days only. Among those who followed her to her last resting place was the young Count Villanueva, the only son and heir of the cele-brated Cuban financier, Pinillos. On his return-rom the cemetery he was taken sick, and notwith-standing all that medical science could do for him he died on Saturday and was buried yesterday, one week exactly from the time he accompanied his wife's friend to the grave.

week exactly from the time he accompanied his wife's friend to the grave.

The death of young Villaneuva has cansed a profound sensation in the community, where he was much beloved by all classes. He was only twenty-five years old, and the sole heir and inheritor to the princely fortune amassed by his father. The title passes into the family of the Marquis de Aguas de Claras, between whom and the old Count Villanueva there existed a deadly enmity, owing to the Marquis marrying the Count's only sister. The Count's sole objection to the rich Marquis's alliance with his sister was grounded on the fact that the Marquis was not pure blooded.

Money, however, smoothed the road to fortune for Money, however, smoothed the road to fortune for the young millionaire, and the Queeu of Spain pro-rounced him white, and gave him the title of Aguas Claras, Anglice pure waters, vulgarly translated by the Habaneros "dirty waters." The wheel of for-tune turned rapidly. Villanueva died suddenly in Madrid, his amiable and virtuous wife has gone Madrid, his amiable and virtuous wife has gone blind, and the only son of the haughty old man died of the loa hsome small-pox, and the title has passed into the hands of his detested enemy. Such is the desiiny of man! If the old gentleman were alive, I am sure he would renounce the title in favor of the State rather than see it pass into the hands of one who has been publicly accused of springing from African origin. The lesson is an instructive one for such as place a name above the p-rsonal merits. The funeral was not very numerously attended, his friends being afraid to expose them elves to the contagion.

MARRIMONIAL INFELICITY—There is a curious difficulty now in progress in one of our colored churches, the facts of which we give as nearly as we can from a somewhat roundabout hearsay. Two members of the church—man and wife—arc so unfortunate as to live unhappily. The husband—whether under Othello-pangs of jcalousy or simply because he was worried by a colored Xantippe—found his life so uncomfortable that he resolved to take some means to rid himself of his conjugalities. found his life so uncomfortable that he resolved to take some means to rid himself of his conjugalities, and be once more a man and a brother, but not a husband. There being no Jo. Biegler at hand to whom he might apply for "a cup of cold pisen," and having a distaste for any of the more vulgar means of divorce, such as are said to be prevalent in Rochester, the "cullud pusson" in question falls back on the Fugitive Slave Law as a resource. His wife was a fugitive who came here by underground—and so he writes to her master down South, imploring him to come North, prove property, pay charges, and take his helly mate back to ply was sent, and which left Simoda September 12th.

FASHIONS AT THE FRENCH COURT.—A Paris letmatter is now dividing the church. We learn that ter in the ludependence of Brussels gives some details of the ludies' dresses at the reception at the while others look upon it as justifiable. They argne that the husband may have suffered so severely under the bonds of wedlock, that the bonds of slavery would be no more than a sufficient punishment for the wife. There the matter stands. The church is divided and distracted, and where it is to end nobody can tell .- Buffalo Commercial.

A Street in London .- There is a little street in the city of London, running off from one of its greatest thorough ares, and filled all day with the thunder of wheel and hoof, wherein, although business of large wheel and noof, wherein, although business of large firms is carried on almost in every house, no cab or cart can pass another, so broad is the pavement, and so narrow is the roadway. The houses are so tall that the slant rays of the sun can never reach down to their lower stories; and at high noonday so much do they overhang with their huge pent-houses, from beneath which the cranes haul their mighty burdens beneath which the cranes haul their mighty burdens from below, that there is very little light in Blank street even then. Dark and hideous enough it is throughout the winter time; the very snow, before it reaches the footway, is black and rotten looking, and indeed can scarcely be said to fall at all, but drops down in a half-melted state from the projectdrops down in a half-melted state from the projecting eaves upon the passenger by day, and in the

Everything passed off quietly. So far twenty-two thieves and connter-feiters have been taken, and the "Regulators" are Remarkable Case in Massachusetts.—We learn that Miss Rebecca D. Briggs, of Wenham, who died suddenly at Manchester, N. H., January 12, of heart disease, at the age of seventeen years, was buried at Wenham, January 21, nine days after death.

The ball given by Lord Napier last night, in honor of the mirriage of the Princess Royal, was a grand affair. There were about four hunor of guests. It was probably the most select and recherche entertainment that has been given in Washington for 1.1, time fast. An additional ball-room was built for the eccasion. Sixteen hundred cards from residents and visitors living in Washington for the time, and seventy-eight from strangers, had been left or sent to the British legation, to obtain the honor of an invitation—such was the anxiety to be invited.

The Union this morning formally malatains the right of the people of the State to after their constitutions without any regard to the provisions thereof touching the time and manner of their modification. This doubtless has been determined upon in connection with the policy of the administration in reference to affairs in Kansas. A ROYAL WEDDING—It is eighteen years since the heart of John Bull was made happy by a royal wedding, though during that time he has had the felicity of enj ying a good many royal christenings. But day before yesterday all England was made merry by the wedding of one of the royal family, the Princess Royal having been betrothed to the heir of the throne of Prussia, and the eldest daughter of Queen. The marriage of the Princess Royal to a Prussian Prince is regarded as a most auspicious event, considered only in its political consequences; but it is said in other respects to be a happy union, and altogether one of choice and affection on the part of the young people, who have, doubtless, as soft and susceptible hearts as the children of farmers or merchants.

The happy event was brilliantly celebrated in mers or merchants.

The happy event was brilliantly celebrated in Washington by a ball given in honor of the occasion by Lord Napier, the British Ambassador, and the Royal nuprials were consecrated by right hearty Republican dancing at the Capitol of our own nation, and in every part of the world last night. From the marble palace of Delhi to the banks of the St. Lawrence, the sound of revelry was heard in commemoration of the happy event. Though it is only the marriage of a young couple who have formed an attachment for each other, and who first exchanged their yows in the Soutish Highlands, yet the exchanged their vows in the Scottish Highlands, yet the event is one of great importance to all the civilized world. England and Prussia, the two great Protestant nations of Europe, are by this marriage made more strongly than ever allies, and hereafter the counsels of Great Britain will doubtless have the same force in Prussia that the counsels of Russia have done heretofore.

If England should ever again find lerself at war with the Czar, Prussia will not remain, as she did during the late war, in a neutral position. The marriage of the Princess Royal of England, therefore, with the Prince of Prussa, is an event of more importance to the world than most Royal marriages have been, and we offer our hearty congratulations to our Cousin Bull on the happy event, and trust the auspicious occasion will prove as kappy in its consequences as he has good reasons for anticipating

MORMON WOMEN .- The Utah correspondent of the New York Tribune says:
"Bishop Johnson, of Springfield, has seven wives, four of whom are sisters, and his own nieces. This is mixing up matters pretty freely, even for a Mor-

Stepping inside the store the lady procured for her some potatoes and a piece of meat. The hungry woman quickly gathered the potatoes into her pocket, then seizing the bloody meat, put it to her lips and ate it to the bone! then saying, 'I must take this home to Eddie,' rushed wildly from the store, leaving the salesman and the lady astounded. DR. MACKAY -Our citizens are not likely to forget, but we beg to remind them, nevertheless, that Dr. Macky, the famous Euglish song-writer, delivers his lecture on "Poetry and Song" in the great Ilall of the Masonic Temple to-night. No further mention is necessary to throng it with the best and brightest of our city.

CORRESPONDENCE.

To C. B. Parross—Dear Sir:

Beheving that there is a general desire felt by those who listened to your excellent before last night on the National Unity of the American States, &c., and also by large numbers who were musvollably prevented the engyment of that pleasure to have you repart the same, we take this early opportunity of so iciding, at your earliest convenience, a repetition of said before, and sheeredy hope you will not refuse to gratify your nemerous friends and admirers.

This is a purely vegetable compound, prepared onstrictly scientife principles, after the manner of the celebrated Holland Pr. feasor, Boerhave. Because of its great success in most of the European States, its introduction into the United States was intended more especially for those of our fatherland scattered here and there over the face of this mighty country. Meeting with great success among them, I now offer it to the American public, knowing that its truly wonderful medicinal virtues must be acknowledged.

The great popularity of this delightful Aroma has induced many initations, which the public should guard against purchasing. Be not persuaded to buy anything elsenntli you have given Boerhave's Holland litters a fair trial. One bottle will convince you how infinitely superior it is to all these initations.

The Navy Department has received advices to the 25th of Nov. from Commodore Armstrene, in command of the squadron in the Chirese seas, inclosing dispatches from Capt. Dupont of the steam frigate Minnesota, which arrived at Hong Kong on the 5th Nov., her sailing from Hampton Rholes being 105 days. The unusual length of the voyage was occasioned by the caution with which Dupont tested the steaming and sailing qualities of the vessel. In clear weather she easily made 13 or 14 knots an hour Many foreign officers who visited her pronouncedfler

AT THE PERSON NAMED OF THE PARTY OF

[Special Correspondence of the Louisville Journal.] Congressional Preachers—Public Printing - Kansas-Fore yn Appointments, etc.

Washington, Jan. 26, 1818.

Now-a-days when a member of Congress dies, at heart half a dozen honorables in both branches "feel nompelled" to say a "few words" on the solemn makier. So they lautch forth their high-wrought makeries, reminding one of the Byronic couples:

Not what he was, but what he should have been." Newhat he was, but what he chould have been."

It is singular how pivus filey all are on the occasion. They ourstrip many a professional minister in their notes of warning and in enforcing the duty of twing prepared for the awful change which must overtake all mortals like themselve. And e peciality the honorables become religious when they have "good auditories," that is, crowded houses. Each memor of this skill as an enter than an interest of solumore of his skill as an entor than an uterer of sol-more traths. The result of the eloquent demonstra-tions is the printing of the eulogies at the public expense and the circulation of them in pamphlet derm. For this purpose the Senate has passed a res-clusion for the publication of the funeral speeches ddivered on the announcement of the death of Sen-Bell of New Hampshire, and of Senator Rusk,

Texas./
This subject of public printing has become identified with the popular phrase of public plunder. The select committee on the subject have earnestly commenced their investigation, with a view of preventing in future the enormous aluses connected with the present abuses. Combinations procure the work, then farm it out, and pocket thousands of dollars. Instead of bestowing such gratuities, indirectly, on servery politicians, the Government ought to save the money for its own uses, for, at this time, the The money for its own uses, for, at this time, the Repartments are pinched for funds to pay current expenses. As was said in the House, vesterday, the Becnetary of the Treasury seems to be waiting for or the Freadry seems to be watting for some "good luck to turn up to relieve the treasury of its embarrassments.

Karsas, now that the Central American question has eacled down, is again rising into prominence. A streamous effort will be made to admit the State under the Lecompton constitution. The President will have off the first gan to rally the faithful to the battle. e will tell Congress, in a message, "Here you have an opportunity to restore quiet to a country too long distracted. Forget the part, look only to the present, look only to the present; in the field of unitonal politics, and all will be well."

But there are gentlemen connected with the Demoration array who cannot be won by smooth words. werely, and more than the President has any idea of will show their hands in opposition to his pro-

The big foreign appointments are held over, to musit the Kansas issue. The only test of Democracy seems to be, "Is he right on that question?" which means, "is he in favor of the Lecompton Constitution?" Mr. Dallas, at the Court of St. James, will not take the hiot and return home. The President does not want to remove him, but he may be compelled to this course if Mr. Dallas shall not pack up beggage and bid adieu to Old England.
Central American affairs have almost ceased to Central American affairs have almost ceased to central American affairs have almost ceased to excite remark. The report of Mr. Mason, the chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations in the Senate, props up the President more strongly than was anticipated, and, of course, while hitting Pauling with a straw gives him a cent not to cry! Nicorn unland speculations just now are acqually carnguan land speculations just now are actually down, perhaps never to rise.

Paulding, instead of being punited, is secretly, if not openly, applauded, and the next thing we may hear of may be his appointment to the command of the Mediterranean squadron.

Congress will not provably adjount fill July, although, if all the members were to work as they abould, they could transact all the public business by the first of April.

[For the Louisville Journal.] SOUTHWESTERN AGRICULT! RALASSOCIATION. CANCELING THE PROXY VOTE.

GENTLEMEN: In your article of yesterday, upon the subject of canceling the proxy vote of members of the Southwestern Agricultural and Mechanical Association, I think you do unintentional injustice to Most of the facts reported in the proceedings of that meeting were furnished you by the writer of this article, your reported in the proceedings of that meeting were furnished you by the writer of this article, your reported not being present during the business of the society. Your statement, therefore, what not man are not we sty members were present, many be easily on trand into an "error of the head and set of the teart." But the assurance of others, "that not more than twenty of the four hundred or the hundred city stockholders were at any time present," is something more tangible and may require an appeal to the present board of directors to appeal that the statement is altorether incorrect so arove that the statement is altogether incorrect, so has as the numbers attending this meeting are con-perited—our meetings being composed usually of both county and city members.

The facts are these: The meeting was composed of from seventy-five to one hundred of the acting members of the society when the proxy vote question came up, a number nearly doubling that of the meeting of the State society held at Frankfort a few days since—and in respectability as well as auxiliary seventially among the society save that of 1857, when an undne excitement prevailed politically among the members, whether these meets interested at or not I leave those most interested at that time to say. Again, the vote upon the proposition to cancel the proxy privile, e was a unanimous em—the resolution passing without even a murmur from any source, and, construing silence into consent, we had no reason to believe that a public actually a state of the second of t quiescence would be followed by a private opposi-

In conclusion, I can assure you, gentlemen, that seven-eighths of the membership of this association are heartily opposed to the proxy vote—that it has been the bane of all the evil the society has suffered From, and unless the proposition, in the hands of our Representatives at Frankfort, praying to rescind the prevey vote privilege, be fairly put and carried out the salvation of the society is in jeopardy; and it is to be hoped, that now, while every injury seems to be healing and harmonizing for the general welfare of this association, nothing may transpire to mar the good we contemplate.

CITY AND COUNTRY.

DEUTSIONS OF THE COURT OF APPEALS OF KENTUCKY-WINTER TERM, 1857. FRANKFORT, January 28.

CAUSES DECIDED. Metzell vs McArthur & Co., Louisville Chancery; affir'd. Ward vs Nash, Greenup; affirmed. Johnson vs Ballard, Shelby; reversed.

Cordon vs Jackson, Mercer; petitlon for rebearing over refed.

Refect ve Smith, judgment, Shelby;
Refect ve Stone, &c., judgment, Shelby;
Lackran ve Montgomery, judgment, Graves;
Refelame ve Montgomery, judgment, Graves;
Gueshy ve McAfee, judgment, Louisville Chancer
Wide ve Monsarrat, judgment, Louisville Chancer
Texts ve Young, judgment, Shelby; were argued.

Jases vs. Hammond, from the Trigg circuit.

Jaige Simpson delivered the opinion of the court, and, heing short, is here given In full, as follows:

In the case of Arnold, &c., vs. Shields, &c., 5 Dana 18, it was maid that, if a proceeding for prohibition be instituted in the Court of Appeals, it could be done only in a case in which, in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction, it has the power of controlling the Interior court by a direct resistent of its judicial acts.

This projection is undeniably correct, for, if this court has no jurisdiction over the case at all, and consequently cannot interior with the action of the circuit court, by writ of prohibitiva.

This view, of itself, would make it necessary to overrule Figure vs. Hammond, from the Trigg circuit.

This view, of itself, would make it necessary to overrule the raction in this case, as the amount for which judgment has been rendered by the circuit court is not sufficient to give this court inrisdiction over it. But we are inclined to the critison that a writ of prohibition is not an appropriate granular has been court of merely appellate jurisdiction, in-assume has the revisory power of such a court can afford adognate relief, without a resort to a proceeding of that character. And this conclusion is very much strengthened in the definition of a writ of prohibition which is given in the Cade of Practice (see, 528), where it is said to be an erfort from the circuit court to an inferior court of limited intellection, prohibition is not interfered.
